Halloween Safety Comes First

Halloween brings on the excitement as trick or treaters anticipate delicious treats and decorative costumes. However, the Georgia Poison Center urges you to be cautious and exercise safe behavior during this time. Following these simple safety tips can assist your family or loved ones in preventing danger:

Treats:

Parents should inspect all treats before they are eaten.

Eat only those treats in their original, unopened wrappers. Throw away candy if wrappers are faded, have holes or tears, or signs of re-wrapping.

Some treats, especially chocolate, can be poisonous to pets.

Check fruit and homemade treats for punctures or contamination. Allow your child to eat these items only if they are from someone you know and trust.

Makeup:

Look for non-toxic designations when choosing Halloween makeup. If makeup is swallowed, treatment depends on amount ingested, ingredients and symptoms. Contact the Georgia Poison Center for treatment advice.

Trick-or-Treating Tips:

Adults should accompany young children, and Halloween visits should be limited to familiar, local neighborhoods or establishments.

Stay away from barking dogs or other upset animals.

Carry a flashlight and use reflective tape on costumes and trick-or-treat bags.

Glow sticks are a smart and popular idea to help illuminate the night during Halloween. However, its active ingredient Dibutyl Phthalate can become poisonous in large amounts. Don't allow children to chew on the glow sticks. Oral ingestion of the contents can cause nausea and burning. If the solution comes in contact with the skin it can cause irritation.
